

Petter Hartman

CEO

Medicon Valley Alliance

Petter is the CEO of Medicon Valley Alliance since June 2015 and holds a Master of Political Science from University of Lund, Sweden.

At Medicon Valley Alliance, Petter Hartman is involved in future strategies for the Medicon Valley region, general management within the public sector, project management, and pharmaceutical research & development.

Petter comes from a post as Funding Manager at Medicon Valley Alliance. Prior to joining MVA Petter worked for the Secretariat for Interreg IV A Öresund-Kattegat-Skagerrak, Copenhagen as a project consultant with special responsibility for issues concerning cross-border relations and labor-market integration projects.

"My interest in society has always been in understanding concepts of social change and development. Whether it is about the impact of volunteering on a local level, or through the combination of multiple strategic efforts to create a better society in the long term; my goal is to work within a context where I can make a difference. The intention to work in cross-border relations has influenced my career in many ways and I expect it to do so in the future. I see a great challenge in working within an international context where different perspectives come together".
