Wilhelm is responsible for driving and executing on business development and innovation strategy for Roche AB. Wilhelm has extensive experience from business development projects and building strategic partnerships within the healthcare and life science sector.